

Richard G. Barr, MD, PhD, FACR, FSRU

Dr. Richard G. Barr is a radiologist with Radiology Consultants, Inc., Southwoods X-ray and Open MRI, located in Youngstown, Ohio. He is also Professor of Radiology at Northeastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine and Pharmacy.

Philips Ultrasound Clinical Service Specialists will assist in the course delivery.

Courses

How to Incorporate Breast Elastography into Your Practice (GISP021VILT)

This one hour Virtual Speaker-Led Training course is designed to provide customers the knowledge to incorporate Strain and ShearWave elastography into your ultrasound practice. Program topics include the indications, technique and interpretation of Strain and Shear Wave elastography.

How to Interpret Liver Elastography (GISP022VILT)

This one hour Virtual Speaker-Led Training course is designed to provide customers the knowledge to interpret liver elastography. Program topics include a review of the protocol for performing liver elastography, the methods of interpretations and the best practices based on the Society of radiologists (SRU) guidelines.

How to Perform Liver Elastography (GISP023VILT)

This one hour Virtual Speaker-Led Training course is designed to provide customers the knowledge to perform liver elastography exams. Program topics include the indications, technique and variables that will affect the elastogram along with limitations of the technique.